National Coalition for Core Arts Standards
Theatre Model Cornerstone Assessment: HS Proficient

Discipline: Theatre
Artistic Processes: Creating, Performing, Responding, Connecting Title: Long Story Short
Description:
Understanding that actors are storytellers, students will synthesize and relate knowledge and personal experiences into a one-to three-minute original monologue, which they will perform for an audience. The purpose of this exercise is for students to establish that storytelling and connection are important elements of acting, which can be used to evoke emotion and influence society.

Grade: HS Proficient

(Note: This task will be piloted during the 2018-2019 school year. Once piloted, the estimated time may be revised. If a time is entered below, it is to assist teachers for planning purposes. If a time is not entered, the developers recognize the task has many purposes and implementation strategies and times are highly teacher dependent. In all cases, time estimates are to be used as a guideline.)

☐ Approximately 25-30 hours
☒ To be determined by the individual teacher

Strategies for Embedding in Instruction [possible sequence & strategies to embed Model Cornerstone Assessment within a classroom unit]
This assessment provides an opportunity to explore how cultural, global, and historic belief systems impact and/or influence a drama/theatre work. Students should have a general understanding of social media, basic understanding of research techniques, and ability to incorporate both nonverbal and verbal communication.

1. Research the origins of storytelling and acting (Research)
2. Identify the first actor in Greek Drama and how he influenced how a story is both told and developed (Research, Interrelate)
3. Explore modern day/contemporary storytelling through news outlets and social media (Interrelate, Research, Empathize, Interpret)
4. Explore how an individual, artist, entity, or organization creates stories and connects to an audience through stories. (Research, Interpret, Reflect, Empathize)
5. Explore the elements of monologue creation through the telling of personal stories. {Action, Dialogue, Description, Exposition and Inner Monologue} (Research, Interpret)
6. Explore storytelling techniques from other cultures. (Research, Empathize, Interrelate)
7. Identify cultural and community experiences that may affect the creation of a drama. (Empathize, Interrelate, Reflect)
8. Evaluate the power of movement and vocal choices in storytelling and dramatic works. (Evaluate, Interpret)
9. Use physical and vocal exploration to develop a monologue and create a character. (Rehearse, Develop)
10. Articulate, and apply critical analysis, background knowledge, research, cultural and historical experiences to your theatre work (Develop, Research, Envision and Empathize).
11. Create a scripted piece based on your improvised monologue.
12. Present a scripted monologue or scene for peers or a specific audience (Share/Present)

Detailed Assessment Procedures [clear outline of procedures necessary to obtain comparable work from multiple teachers - i.e., coding and file format for preservation of student work (mp3, PDF), etc.]

Introduction: Prior to using the Model Cornerstone Assessment (MCA), all students should have received scaffolded instruction that would prepare them to achieve proficiency in this assessment. When assessing students, be sure to read all materials thoroughly and completely to ensure that the assessment is implemented as suggested. This Model Cornerstone Assessment may be used in a variety of ways including: lesson planning, instruction, pre- or post-assessment, formative, intermediate or summative assessment, data for professional development, or in any way that the teacher might find useful.

- Teachers should guide students to create a story and write down the story in script form following standard conventions of writing.
- Teachers should provide students with the opportunity to workshop their scripts with the class so they can get feedback on their scripts.
- Teachers should video-record the final performance for student self reflection.
